PRESS RELEASE*For Immediate Release*ServiceLink Builds on Success of EXOS Appraisal at 2018 Valuation Expo

With a focus on the future, company leadership to participate in innovation discussion

PITTSBURGH (September 26, 2018) – When EXOS launched, it created a revolutionary solution. With evolving customer expectations redefining the home buying process, ServiceLink saw an opportunity to improve communication between consumers and appraisers. Thus, EXOS Appraisal was formed.

Allowing consumers to schedule appointments at their convenience through real-time calendaring, while also organizing appraisers' calendars to maximize their time, EXOS Appraisal boosts productivity and efficiency creating a seamless customer experience. And, as the only free office management suite available on the market, EXOS offers independent appraisers the ability to simplify and streamline their business on their own terms.

“For years there have been predictions of great change in the residential appraisal world, and it has finally arrived,” said Danny Wiley, Chief Valuation Officer at ServiceLink. “EXOS and the benefits it brings to appraisers is a change few would have envisioned, but appraisers all over the country are using it to increase productivity. We are thrilled to be back at the expo demonstrating EXOS.”

In addition to its exhibit at the 2018 Valuation Expo at The Flamingo in Las Vegas, Nevada, ServiceLink leadership will also participate in an educational session and its Vendors and Lenders Live panel. Experts will also be available at exhibits 78 and 79, starting October 1 and running through October 3, 2018, to offer demonstrations of EXOS Appraisal and EXOS Consumer.
